Hoover Calls King 'Notorious Liar'; Warren Report Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has called the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. "the most notorious liar in the country" for claiming that FBI agents in Albany, Ga., will not act on civil rights complaints because they are Southerners.

Hoover made the statement Wednesday in an interview with a group of women reporters. King's office in Atlanta, Ga., said the Negro leader was vaccationing in the Bahamas and could not be reached for comment.

One source explained the FBI chief's blunt remarks by saying Hoover "has had these things on his chest for a long time and felt this was as good a time as any to say something."

In the interview Hoover took sharp issue with King. He charged that the Nobel Prize winner and civil rights leader had distorted the facts about FBI activities in the South.

Hoover said King had told his Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) not to report acts of violence to the FBI office in Albany because the agents were Southerners and would do nothing.

"The truth is that 70 per cent of the agents in the South were born in the North and four of the five agents in the Albany, Ga. office are Northerners," Hoover said.

The FBI director said he had attempted to confer with King to "clear up" the question, but that the Negro leader had not responded.

In a three-hour session with the women reporters in his office Hoover was unusually outspoken on subjects ranging from civil rights and presidential protection to police corruption and juvenile delinquency. He expressed these views:

— FBI agents investigating civil rights cases in the swamp country of Mississippi sometime find the area is filled with "nothing but water moccasins, rattlesnakes and red-necked sheriffs, and they are all in the same category as far as I am concerned."

— The Mississippi State Highway Patrol cooperated in the investigation of the murder of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., but in some areas sheriffs and sheriffs' deputies themselves have participated in racial violence.

— A judge's action at McComb, Miss., in giving suspended sentences to nine white men who pleaded guilty of bombing Negro homes and churches "was a scandalous thing to do."

— He attributes most of the WASHINGTON (UPI) — The office of Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., confirmed today that the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard will remain open under Defense Department approval. However, Olmstead Air Force Base at Middleton, Pa., will be phased out over a five-year period.

The office of the vacationing

Sen. Clark issued the following statement:

"The case for keeping the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard open has always been a solid and incontrovertible one. Sen. Clark will be extremely gratified that McNamara and his staff, after reviewing all the facts presented by the shipyard workers, Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia and the Philadelphia congressional delegation agreed with us that there was no alternative yard which could perform the unique services of the Philadelphia Yard at Comparable efficiency and economy. We are all pleased that the nation's oldest yard will continue its operations in Philadelphia."

The Philadelphia Yard em-plays about 8,000 persons and Olmstead Air Force Base employs about 14,000 persons.

The statement continued "while this was good news, we must be deeply concerned over the plans to phase out over a five-year period the Air Materiel Center at Olmstead Air Force Base near Middletown. Meanwhile, Defense Secretary

Robert S. McNamara has ordered the huge Brooklyn, N.Y., Navy Yard shut down as one of 95 bases and military installations he is closing for economic reasons, it was learned today.

The Brooklyn Army Terminal and nearby Ft. Jay on Governor's Island in New York harbor also was on McNamara's list of bases to be eliminated.

The Portsmouth Naval Shipyard at Portsmouth, N.H., also will be closed, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre disclosed today. The yard employs about 7,500 persons from the nearby New England area and has an annual payroll of $61.6 million.

Another victim of McNamara's economy drive probably

Agencies And People Helping In Terrace But More Needed

(The Last Of Four Articles)

By LARRY INCOLLINGO
Courier-Times Staff Writer

What to do about conditions in Bristol Terrace? Ronald Zweig, Bristol Township manager, told me the township building inspector, in conjunction with the federal government, is conducting a pilot study program of urban renewal for this area.

However, a former township building inspector said the buildings are structurally sound and meet the building code requirements. He also said they are more fire resistant than many other dwellings in the township.

He continued: "The housing conditions are created by the residents. The owners have tried to maintain a respectable looking place but the people who live there fail to cooperate with them."

Cites Owners' Cooperation

"I know of instances where the owners have taken in families who could not pay their first month's rent, just to help them get started. But they got little thanks for their kindness. Some of these same people are behind one, two or three months in their rent."

"The owners have bent over backwards to cooperate with the township many times, too," he said.

Zweig also made a similar point by telling me that 95 per cent of the township's housing problems are in rental units.

Says Commissioners Satisfied

A spokesman for the firm which owns the Terrace said the present building inspector rated the Terrace as the best low cost housing in the area.

"We have taken the commissioners through here and they were satisfied," he said. However, he would say no more than this.

Along with urban renewal, Zweig said the township is considering a licensing rental plan. In substance this would require a landlord to obtain a license, the building inspector would have to approve the premises, declaring them in good repair and liveable.

When told of this, a Negro teacher who lives outside the Terrace declared, "I think this is a good plan. The Terrace should be saved. It is worth saving for every newborn baby, every child, ado-

race have nothing but the deplorable conduct of their elders and neighbors to guide them, and the almost hopeless efforts of a few outsiders who are

Blatt Concedes Scott's Election

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The office of U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott said today it had received a telegram from state Internal Affairs Secretary Genevieve Blatt conceding Scott's reelection to a second six-year term.

The telegram was disclosed shortly before Miss Blatt, who had attempted to unseat Scott in the Nov. 3 election, was to hold a news conference in her capitol office.

Robert L. Kunzig, Scott's campaign manager, said the telegram read:

"Although the official returns of the combined regular and absentee ballot counts are not yet quite complete, it appears that you have a clear majority of the votes cast. I offer you, therefore, my sincere congratulations on your reelection and my best wishes for a successful new term in office. I hope too that you and Mrs. Scott are having a successful vacation."

Rohm & Haas Strike In 22nd Day

Union And Management Step Up Talks

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Hopes of settlement in the three-week-old Rohm & Haas Co. strike improved a bit today as union and management stepped up their negotiations.

As the strike of 1,462 hourly production workers went into its 22nd day at the Bristol Township chemical and plastics plant, union members maintained picket duty at the plant's five gates in rain which was expected to last through tomorrow.

Hearing Tomorrow

Tomorrow, both parties go into Bucks County Common Pleas Court for a hearing at 1:30 p.m. on the restraining injunction issued Nov. 12 by Judge Lawrence Monroe. Local 88, United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America, AFL - CIO - CLC, is being charged by the company with contempt of the court order which limits the number of pickets at the gates.

Bristol Township police maintained their vigil on the strike scene, but it may well be the last day they'll be on duty.

Last night, upon the recommendation of Township Manager Ronald Z. Zweig, the board of commissioners directed that township police be taken of strike duty.

Zweig said the emergency duty has made it impossible to provide normal police services in the township. He recommended that Bucks County Sheriff Harold Dando be advised that the township can no longer provide police officers for the enforcement of court orders.

Contract talks resumed at 1:30 p.m. today in the Bristol Motor Inn with Federal Mediator Charles F. Werkheiser.

'Let It Rain, Let It Pour ...'

Rain began falling on drought-stricken Bucks County today and the weatherman said it probably wouldn't stop until late tomorrow night.

The northeast storm, heavy at times, was expected to give the area between one and two inches of relief to alleviate the water shortage crisis.

By 1 p.m. the Trenton Weather Bureau had recorded 22 one-hundredths of an inch of rain. In the first 18 days of November we had only .16 of an inch.

agement sub-committees met in special session in hopes of ironing out several issues on which both parties have reached a virtual impasse.

The sub-committee will present their conclusions to the mediator this afternoon. Yesterday's five-hour negotiating session produced what was described by both sides as "very little progress."

A company spokesman, however, said "at least we're still negotiating. And as long as we are there's still hope." He said it appeared that "everybody's given as far as they possibly can go."

The union is asking for an 18-month contract with an immediate four per cent wage increase and an additional two per cent hike after 12 months.

The company is offering a two-year contract with an im-

A total of $474,133, which represents 68 per cent of the 1965 Bucks County United Fund goal of $700,000, was reported at the fourth formal report meeting last night at Trainer's restaurant, Quakertown.

An audit conducted by volunteer auditors, headed by Byron S. Hunt of Fairless Hills, on Tuesday night showed $430,381. As a result of "Operation Telephone" being conducted by UF volunteers, and reports from campaign leaders yesterday, $43,752 in additional pledges was attained.

General campaign chairman John Catzin thanked all campaign leaders for their help and cooperation in attaining this result.

Catzin said, "We are ahead of last year's campaign and because we are confident we will

Mill Street Speaker Set

The Mill Street Businessmen's Association's board of directors will hold a dinner meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., at Stoney Mill Hall, Canal St., Bristol.

Francis B. J. Branagan, director of real estate development for Penn Warner Park, will be the main speaker.

He will speak on the potential impact of the new development on the Bristol area and will also point out the new opportunities for the community.

The Penn Warner Park is planned on a tract comparable in size to that of U. S. Steel's Fairless Works.

The formal meeting will begin at 8 p.m., after the dinner.

Preparing For This Dentist Brings Worst Pain Of All

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — You have to talk to your dentist about something, and in my case the something is football. The reason for this is that my dentist is Les Horvath, and if your memory is good you may recall that in 1944, at Ohio State, he was in the consensus All-America backfield, along with Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard of Army and Bob Fenimore of Oklahoma A&M.

Les is a very gentle dentist, not only outwardly but inwardly too, once trimming my considerable bill to less than he had figured — but in order to bone up for our session, I have to keep up with the televised football games, and to do this I have to sit through the half-time ceremonies of premeditated music, and I don't think any friendship is worth this price.

Bad Music

Down with halftime entertainment by college bands! Away, once and for all, with these horrible passages of time, which are now a video embarrassment from coast to coast! There is no worse-sounding music in all the world, not even on ABC-TV's "Shindig" series, not even on the same network's Dick Clark show. Have you ever heard "The Girl From Ipanema" massacred by a college band during halftime?

Have you ever heard the tunes from Broadway shows being mutilated by these bands as, en masse, the musicians try to remember the signals for complicated marching formations which are being forced upon us as an alleged American tradition?

Think of the money that could be saved, and used for more worthy causes — maybe even education — if these huge bands were not shipped out, along with teams, for games. Think of the spectacles of utter crudeness that would disappear from the nation's television screens. At least, think of how nice it would be if the bands did nothing more than to stop assaulting the nation's better music, and were content with playing undistinguished marches and alma maters, all of which sound alike anyway. Today the bands! — Tomorrow the cheerleaders! Away with them too — the male ones.

The Channel Swim: The commercialization of Christmas is satirized on ABC-TV's "Directions" Dec. 6. NBC-TV's expected special with Lorne ("Bonanza") Greene is reported a good bet to air no Father's Day.

Dystrophy Assn., Hospital Aide Get 1964 Rush Awards

A Buckingham woman and a Lower Bucks organization will receive the 1964 Benjamin Rush awards from the Bucks County Medical Society.

Mrs. Alison L. Beatty and the Bucks County Chapter, Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, were announced as recipients of the coveted awards this week by a committee of the medical society.

Mrs. Helen M. Shaeffer, who herself has muscular dystrophy and is confined to a wheelchair, is the principal force behind the Muscular Dystrophy Association in Lower Bucks. A former school teacher, she runs its drives, and handles its services from her Fairless Hills home.

Other officers in the Bucks County Association are Fletcher Weden, president; Joseph Shaeffer, husband of Mrs. Shaeffer, vice president; Mary Donifrio, recording secretary; Elaine Melsky, financial secretary, and John S. Neald, treasurer.

The purpose of the Rush awards is to recognize a lay person and a voluntary organization for their outstanding contributions to community health and welfare.

Mrs. Beatty of Sunnyside Acres, Buckingham, was selected for her service to the Doylestown Hospital and for her efforts through other channels to projects in Bucks County.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association, a group of volunteers, has a record of aid and service to the stricken and to MD research.

"Humanitarian Interest"

Dr. Paul McIlvaine, president of the Bucks County Medical Society, said the association is being recognized for its tireless fight against muscular dystrophy.

"We want to acknowledge their humanitarian interest to those afflicted with this dread disease," Dr. McIlvaine said. "Not only has the association assisted many and relieved suffering, but they stand as a monument to the faith, courage and hope in the fight against MD."

The Muscular Dystrophy chapter is eight years old. It has provided direct assistance to 29 individuals.

Its patient services and efforts to bolster research have received widespread recognition. The chapter provides wheelchairs, lifts, braces and orthopedic devices for patients. It has planned and directed educational programs and provides transportation.

Not only has the chapter aided in helping those afflicted in Bucks, it has played a major part in aiding MD research needed throughout the nation.

Mrs. Beatty has given 4,942 hours volunteer service to agencies at Doylestown Hospital, including nurses aid classes and other volunteer projects.

Honor Philadelphian

"She has been outstanding in her loyalty, in her work and in her devotion to patient care," a spokesman said. She is also active in the Doylestown Nature Club devoted to community beautification, conservation and nature education.

The medical society awards honor the memory of Dr. Benjamin Rush of Philadelphia, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and physician of Washington's Army.

The two Bucks County winners will be nominated for State Benjamin Rush awards, presented by the state medical society.

FAA Hears Objections

Hope Remains For LB Airport Site

The possible development for commercial purposes of the Old Star Airport, Route 1, Middletown Township, has improved the chances of the Maple Point site as the location for the proposed Lower Bucks County Airport.

John C. Elfman, chairman of the Bucks County Authority, said this morning he was more optimistic about the chances for approval from the Federal Aviation Agency since he was assured the Old Star Airport will close next spring in order to make way for some commercial development.

He did not elaborate on what type of development would be constructed. Elfman said he would receive a letter from the airport stating its intention to close.

Objections Aired

The Old Star field and one owned by Ernest H. Buehl, 6,000 feet south of the Maple Point site, are the two biggest stumbling blocks in the way of FAA approval, he said.

Objections against the airport site were aired at a Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) meeting at Kennedy International Airport by the Philadelphia Electric Co., the Johnstown Naval Air Facility and the Army in addition to objections filed by the Mercer Airport, near Trenton, and Buehl.

Transmission Line

Officials of the Philadelphia Electric Co. objected because the proposed 3,500-foot runway would intersect with 150-foot right-of-way for a 220,000 volt transmission line and a second proposed runway, according to a company spokesman, would interfere with the operation of a sub-station to be built next spring on a 50 acre tract near the proposed airport.

Navy officers from the Johnstown facility said the proposed field would be on the outer perimeter of the instrument landing approach of their field and also close to the North Philadelphia Airport. An Army representative seconded the Navy's objections and added that if the airport were built it would create a real pile up.

Buehl and John T. Stephan, manager of the Mercer Airport, both filed written complaints to the agency before the meeting. Buehl also objected to the air traffic problem because his field is so close to the Maple Point site, but Stephan was more concerned that the proposed airport would interfere with the instrument landing system at Mercer.

8 Places Considered

Maple Point was one of eight places considered by the authority. Elfman pointed out the authority and its engineering firm, Pickering, Corts and Summerson of Langhorne, had a difficult time finding any location in Lower Bucks which met all requirements other than the Maple Point site.

Commercial License

Elfman said the field Buehl owns could receive a commercial license from the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission at its next meeting on Dec. 7. But, he added, even if the commission approves Buehl's airport it might make this approval subject to the Middle-town Township supervisors. The supervisors refused a request from Buehl to provide zoning for his field in 1963.

If Buehl does not get his commercial license, Elfman feels that objections from the Army will be dropped and it probably will be possible to build on the Maple Point site with the approval of the FAA.

Scranton Asks More Police, Tighter Penalties In Traffic

Governor William W. Scranton yesterday called for stiffer penalties in Pennsylvania's traffic code and more police officers to enforce that code.

Scranton told approximately 2,000 persons attending the 1964 Governor's Conference on Traffic Safety that the "only way to keep people within the law is through a constant patrolling system."

He also asked for a sweeping revision of the code to bring it in line with a model code being adopted by other states across the nation.

He called attention to the fact that a driver can be fined only $10 for speeding but $100 for tossing a scrap of paper out the window of his car and thus "littering" the highway.

The Governor was one of a series of speakers who addressed the all-day conference. At the conclusion of his speech he presented certificates of award to a number of individuals and groups who have taken steps to promote traffic safety in the state this past year.

One of the awards was given to the Lower Bucks County Chamber of Commerce. David Johnson, president of the Chamber, was present to accept it.

Other members of the Chamber who were present were Warren Likens, executive director, W. Spencer Erwin and Charles Wilkinson.

Among the speakers was E. William Lindeberg, former tax collector for Middletown Township who now lives in Camp Hill, Pa., and is director of public information for the state Department of Revenue.

Lindeberg spoke on the promotional and educational program of the Department designed to improve driving habits and thus reduce accidents.

Other Speakers

The speakers included Lieutenant Governor Raymond P. Shafer, who welcomed the group; L. T. Bernard, director of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, talking on electronic data processing as it is used in issuing and revoking licenses; Highway Secretary Henry D. Harrah; Professor Arthur Frankston of Dickinson School of Law; Major George Gregory of the Pennsylvania State Police; Ivan J. Stehman, supervisor of highway safety education in the Department of Public Instruction, and Harry H. Brainerd, commissioner of the Bureau of Traffic Safety.

Among those from Lower Bucks County who were present at the conference were: Police Chief Vincent A. Faragalli, Sgt. Michael Manto and Justices of the Peace Eugene Spadaccino and John Walker of Bristol Borough.

Also From Bucks

Dr. Oliver Heckman, supervisor of the Neshaminy School District, and John Paul, Neshaminy business administrator.

Police Chief John R. Stewart of Bristol Township, Bristol Township Commissioner Jack Ward and Mrs. Ward; Mayor Nicholas Eberle, Councilman John Thompson, Police Chief John Walterick and Joseph Gaydos of Tullytown Borough;

Mayor Fred H. Sheese, Chief of Police Jesse Hibbs, Sgt. Thomas R. Moffett and Justice of the Peace George B. Paxson of Langhorne;

Justices of the Peace Steven Nieckoski of Middletown Township and Chris Ritter of Bensalem Township;

Mayor Henry M. O'Brien, Yardley;

Katherine E. Dinnerman, clerk of the court of quarter sessions of Bucks County;

Instructors in driver education Gordon Davies of Morrisville High School; Frank Jakob, Pennsylvania and Robert Bolent, Woodrow Wilson High;

Supervisors W. J. Mackensen Jr. and Russell F. Carter of Lower Makefield Township and Chief of Police Robert W. Waterson.

Released In Bail

Ex-Meat Salesman Charged In Fraud

A former meat and freezer salesman has been arrested on a charge of cheating by false pretenses and is facing a number of complaints on similar charges.

Louis Snyder, 52, of 9 Myrtle Lane, Magnolia Hill, Levittown, was arrested by Detective John Wagner earlier this month on a complaint by Mrs. Wynne Cloud, 100 Terrace Road, Twin Oaks, Levittown. Police said Snyder took an order for $155.57 worth of meat and collected $50 from Mrs. Cloud. The meat was never delivered.

Snyder was posing as a salesman for the Margerum Co. of Philadelphia, but has not been in the employ of the firm since July, police said. Justice of the Peace Stephen P. Nieckoski set bail at $500.

Two Complaints

JP Dominick C. Spadaccino set bail at $1,000 on two other complaints against Snyder. He was released in bail.

Mrs. Doris W. Taylor, 51 Trelis Road, Twin Oaks, Levittown, said she placed an order for $143.66 worth of meat with Snyder but did not receive the goods. She paid a deposit of $60.

Mrs. Shirley Ann Certell, 213 Blough Court, Fairless Hills, told JP Spadaccino she paid $600 for a freezer and four months of meat, but did not receive the freezer or the food.

In all of the complaints, the persons buying the products were under the impression Snyder was still employed as a salesman.

3-Car Crash Injures Two

A three-car collision early today resulted in injuries to a driver of one of the cars and his passenger.

Warren Buchek, 18, of 242 Trenton Road, Fairless Hills, driver of one of the cars involved, and his passenger William Gartner, 20, of 1757 Dixon Ave., Maple Shade, were taken to Delaware Valley Hospital by the Levittown Fairless Hills Rescue Squad for treatment.

The accident occurred at the intersection of West Trenton Ave. and Route 13, Morrisville.

Police said the driver of the other two cars, Thelma Schell, 28, of 498 Plaza Blvd., Morrisville, and Otto J. Nussbaum, 51, of Evergreen Road, Morrisville, were not injured.

Patrolmen George Dascalakis and Lyle Gass investigated. There were no charges.

Car Theft Leads To Master Key Probe

The case of two Lower Bucks students who were apprehended after stealing a car Nov. 10 has set off an investigation of a master key ring, Tullytown Police Chief John Walterick said today.

The 14-year-old boy and 15-year-old girl stole a 1956 Oldsmobile belonging to Madeline Supinski of 3935 Bristol Pike, Cornwells Heights, from the Levittown Shopping Center with the help of a key supplied to them from another student, Walterick said.

The youngsters were apprehended on Nov. 13 in Jonesboro, Ga. while en route to Mexico. Georgia police, uninformed of the car theft at the time, spotted a parked car and found the pair asleep. Upon questioning them, police discovered neither had a driver's license. The parents, who were summoned, brought back the missing youths plus the car.

No Connection

Upon questioning, the two admitted that they got the key from a boy and girl who were to go with them, Walterick said. That couple had gotten the key from another boy. Whether or not the youths paid for the keys is unknown, the chief said.

"There is no connection between this case and the master key case that occurred recently in Southampton," Walterick said. "However, the boy said he did know John Yeager of Trevo, involved in the case, from the past summer school at Bishop Egan, he added.

The youths were released in the custody of their parents pending further investigation, the chief said.

100 Demand Water

Angry Croydonites Blasts Twp., Borough

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Bristol Township may demand that the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) take away Bristol Borough's franchise if the borough doesn't take steps to provide water to some 200 homes in the Croydon area.

The township board of commissioners blasted the borough's lack of cooperation as 100 angry, defiant residents last night demanded that the commissioners take immediate action to provide water and clean out rat-infested drainage ditches.

For more than two hours, the irate residents pelted the commissioners with verbal blasts that produced the noisiest session the governing board probably ever experienced.

Shout Denunciations

Several times board president James N. Kline had to ask for order as men and women jumped to their feet, shouting denunciations at the commissioners.

There were other residents from Levittown who asked for assistance from the commissioners in providing more recreation for children and for rebuilding crumbled curbs.

These appeals, however, were overshadowed and outshouted by the heated protests from the Croydonites.

Larry Cerasoli, fourth ward commissioner, attempted to get the township to alleviate the drainage problems by piping in the area. However, Commissioner Jack Ward, from Levittown's eighth ward, had the motion tabled.

When Ward accused the residents of being asked to come to the meeting "by your commissioner," he was roundly jeered. Several women jumped up and defiantly shouted at Ward.

Several residents from Arthur and Dixon Aves., Croydon, told the commissioners that the drainage ditch in their neighborhood was producing swamp areas with stagnant water breeding disease.

They told the board that one girl already has been hospitalized with encephalitis.

Women pleaded with the commissioners to "do something before it costs a life."

Manager's Recommendation

Twp. Patrolman Dismissed

Bristol Township commissioners last night dismissed Patrolman George Neill upon the recommendation of Township Manager Ronald Zweig.

Zweig recommended Neill's dismissal for conduct unbecoming an officer, which Zweig stated, includes taking a carton of cigarettes from a Levittown supermarket and failing to make a report of the crime.

Six majority commissioners voted for Neill's dismissal. Two others, Harry W. Fawkes and Larry Cerasoli, abstained. Fawkes said he did not want to vote since he (Fawkes) is a member of the township civil service commission which will hear Neill's appeal.

Commissioner Charles Worthington cast a no vote, stating he would await the outcome of Neill's appeal. Commissioner Joseph Bellerby was not present.

Neill, a veteran of 11 years on the police force, was suspended on Nov. 1 for one year.

Despite the fact that Bucks County District Attorney William J. Carlin yesterday disclosed he would not prosecute Neill because of "lack of evidence," Zweig last night recommended the officer's immediate dismissal.

Before voting, the commissioners went behind closed doors for five minutes. Zweig reportedly told the board he was basing his request on tape recordings he had in his possession.

Crackdown Planned On Bomb Threats

By PAUL ALTAIRE
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Exactly one year ago today, Pennsylvania's Quarry Hill School was evacuated seconds after an anonymous telephone caller warned that a bomb had been planted in the school.

Lower Makefield police made a thorough search of the building. They found no bomb.

But they did find the caller.

Acting on a tip, they apprehended a 12-year-old Lower Makefield boy who confessed to the crime — a crime punishable by up to $1,000 fine or one year in prison — or both, for an adult.

For the juvenile, who said he wanted "to get revenge" for being suspended from school and not making the soccer team, it meant an indefinite term at the New Life Boys Ranch in Harleysville, Montgomery County. He has since returned home.

One of 7

But that bomb scare was just one of seven the Pennsylvania District had had since then.

The most recent occurred yesterday, about the same time that two other bomb scares were reported elsewhere in the area.

Of the three yesterday, one occurred at the Vulcanized Rubber and Plastics Co. at 5 S. Pennsylvania Ave., Morrisville; the second at the Cold Spring Bleachery on N. Main St., Yardley; the third at Pennsylvania High School, Lower Makefield.

3rd Scare

Yesterday's bomb scare at Pennsylvania High School was the third at the school within 24 hours.

Lower Makefield Police Chief Robert W. Waterson said, "I'm afraid we've got a crackpot loose in the township." Waterson said his department is conducting a thorough investigation and search for the person or persons responsible.

Disrupts System

"If we catch them — we're going to prosecute to the full extent of the law," Waterson said.

Regional superintendent of Pennsylvania Schools, William Ingraham, said that in addition to the dangers involved — the scares themselves disrupt the entire school system.

Ingraham said when a bomb scare is reported, the entire school is evacuated in seconds but that the search for a bomb, conducted by police and by school and township maintenance men, takes an hour or two.

"This is a terrible thing," Ingraham said, "and every effort will be made on our part and the police to apprehend the guilty."

Crane's Ex-Wife Burned In Apt.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Mrs. Patricia Stein, 34, former wife of television star Les Crane, suffered burns of the head and legs early today when fire gutted her 12th floor apartment in the Ambassador Towne House in Center City.

More than half of the 800 occupants of the 17-story building fled quietly to the ground floor lobby as smoke from the blaze filled their quarters. Firemen used air packs to get into the flaming apartment. They extinguished the fire in 10 minutes.

Fire Causes Destruction Of Garage

Fire today leveled a two-story garage and disrupted telephone service to several homes in Edgely.

The blaze, discovered at 12:25 a.m., destroyed the frame garage owned by Earl B. Dougherty, 7129 Riverview Ave. Damage to the building and its contents were estimated at $2,500.

Cause of the fire is being investigated by state police and Bucks County Fire Marshal Fred K. Hibbs. John Doster, Edgely Fire Co. No. 1 chief, said the blaze appears to have started in the electrical wiring inside the garage.

Daughter Hears Noise

Dougherty, former Bristol Township justice of the peace, said he and his daughter, Kathleen, 11, had returned home at 11:45 p.m. Their home is located a few hundred yards from the garage.

Kathleen was aroused from her sleep when she heard crackling noises. Her father at first thought it was the pet dog. But when his wife, Marie, looked out their rear window she saw flames. At first Mrs. Dougherty thought it was a house on top of the hill which runs from the Delaware River to Radcliffe St.

Dougherty quickly saw it was his garage and rushed to call the fire company. However, flames from the blaze had burned overhead telephone lines, causing his telephone to go dead.

Neighbor Calls

He summoned a neighbor, Ralph Kennedy of 7200 Riverview Ave., to call firemen.

In addition to the garage, a 1957 station wagon, lawn furniture, two power lawn mowers, six snow tires, other automotive equipment and Kathleen's bicycle.

Firemen were able to save an adjoining masonry garage owned by Julian Bley. However, flames charred one side of the garage roof.

When firemen arrived on the scene, flames were shooting several hundred feet into the air. Wind-whipped sparks burned several treetops in the area.

Red China's Premier Speaks With Great Agitation Of U.S.

By R. E. STANNARD
MANILA (UPI) — "He is charming, but capable of great decisiveness."
Who? Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.
Who says so? Columnist Maxim Soliven, one of four Philippine newsmen recently granted an interview in Peking.
It was Chou's first interview since China's nuclear test explosion.
Soliven and his fellow newsmen on a 19-day tour of mainland China were in Shanghai when they learned belatedly of the nuclear test. They persuaded their hosts, the All-China Journalists Association, that only an interview with top leadership could salvage the face they lost in missing the story.
Soliven's interview was published here in the Manila Times and carried on agency wires throughout the world.
Contacted at home on his return, Soliven expressed these personal impressions:
"It was 10:30 on a gray and nippy morning when we were told we were getting our interview with Premier Chou.
"He stood waiting for us at the door of the Fookien Room, an old country gentleman in a simple dark Sun Yat-Sen suit devoid of jewelry or sign of rank.
"He looked a bit older than his published photos — a few more lines in his face, a little more gray in his hair — but had the same bright steely look in his gaze. He stepped forward and grasped my hand with a smile murmuring a greeting in English as flashbulbs popped. His grip was very strong.
"I'm 67. I'm getting old," the Premier said as he lighted my cigarette for me. He doesn't smoke himself, but sipped continuously from a tall mug of tea.
"Agreeing to open the interview with a statement, he spoke eagerly and eloquently in Chinese for about 20 minutes. Twice he broke into English to correct his interpreter.
"He has a certain impact. He has a strong personality, and you can feel it.
"After his statement, he took our toughest question in good humor. But when the United States was mentioned, his face took a sharp expression, his eyes flashed and he spoke with great agitation.
"I could see he vehemently dislikes Americans, yet he was relaxed and smiling when the conversation turned to American bases in the Philippines; and grinned when he tersely called Khrushchev's fall 'a good thing.'
"He was extremely modest discussing the nuclear test and Red China's achievements. He said they tried their best but made many mistakes and would appreciate suggestions.
"It seems to me Chou En-lai's secret of controlling people is that he knows how to keep them at their distance while still giving them the opportunity to call him friend.
"I have met Kennedy, Castro, Nehru and others. I feel Chou is one of the most remarkable men I have met.
"As a matter of fact, he is so charming and friendly of manner, if I didn't know his record I'd think he was some Sunday School teacher on his day off.
"We ended the interview ourselves after an hour and a half. 'Is that enough?' he asked. 'Do you want more?' We told him we had all we could handle.
"We looked back as we drove away. He waved to us as he walked down the steps — alone."

RECORD ROBBERY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Giants set an all-time major league record when they stole 47 bases during the 1911 season.

Strong Grip
"He looked a bit older than his published photos — a few more lines in his face, a little more gray in his hair — but had the same bright steely look in his gaze. He stepped forward and grasped my hand with a smile murmuring a greeting in English as flashbulbs popped. His grip was very strong."

THE FIRST
COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The first president of the minor leagues—Pat Powers of Columbus, Ohio—was elected in 1901 and resigned in 1909.

BOXING GHISTORY
CHICAGO (UPI) — The lightweight division in boxing was established in 1903 on the suggestion of Lou Houseman, a Chicago sports writer, who pointed out that rules then in existence approved as a "heavyweight" any boxer over 158 pounds.

CURLING MEDAL
MONTREAL (UPI) — The Gordon International Medal was donated by Robert Gordon of New York for competition between rinks in the Canadian branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club and the Grand National Curling Club of America in 1884.

6 Yards Of Silk Could Dress Woman Elegantly - But Cause Crisis

By R. C. PANDE
United Press International
NEW DELHI (UPI) — Six yards of silks is all the Indian woman needs to dress herself elegantly. But those six yards could create a crisis in the family budget. A sari—a 72 by 40 inch piece of handspun silks—can cost from $10.50 to $1,050. The most expensive types are the Benar-

as brocades, with designs in gold of cheetahs chasing the black buck, or sunsets over the holy rivers. The Kashmir saris are known as the ring-tested saris. You can pull a six-yard long sari through a wedding ring. They are as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. "They are very expensive and besides nobody likes embroidered motifs these days," a leading sari merchant in downtown New Delhi said. During a recent fashion show in New Delhi the sponsors said they were exporting large shipments of saris regularly to foreign countries including the United States and Britain. One model reeled off the names of Barbara Eisenhower, Jacqueline Kennedy and Rita Hayworth who have either bought saris for wearing or for dress material. The mongoose is famed as a snake killer.

BASPET RECORD

NEW YORK (UPI) — The single game scoring record in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament is 53 points by George Mikan with DePaul in 1945. The total almost doubled Mikan's high output of 27 points for a single game the previous year.
